Bits - A Two-Minute Newsletter

It was mealtime during an airline flight. "Would you like dinner?" the flight attendant asked John, seated in front. "What are my choices?" asked John. "Yes or no," she replied.

$82 million is the amount spent on chicken wings - the most popular Super Bowl fare - according to Nielsen.

Toothpaste has been minty ever since it was developed by ancient Egyptians out of pepper, rock salt, mint and dried irises.

Pianos. In 1900, 171,000 pianos were sold. There was one piano in every 178 home. In 1909, there was a piano in every 99 households. That was the height of piano popularity. In 1978, 223 million pianos were sold, with one in every 316 home. It's been downhill ever since. By 2015, only one of every 3,788 families owned a piano.

"There is no distinctly Native American criminal class ... save government
Mark Twain

Frank Sinatra considered Kate Smith the best singer of her time, and said that when he and a million other guys first heard her sing "God Bless America" on the radio, they all wiped away a tear.

There are 18.6 million vacant houses in the U.S. That's enough for every homeless person in America to have six.

Americans will spend $14.1 billion on Super Bowl game parties.

Every human is born with the ability to wiggle their ears. If you don't discover it early, the muscle atrophies.

You do not need a parachute to skydive. You only need a parachute to skydive twice.

Denny's has a slogan, "If it's your birthday, the meal is on us." If you're in Denny's and it's your birthday, your life sucks.

The entire population of Earth could fit inside Texas, and it would still be less crowded than New York City.

When adjusted to inflation, John D. Rockefeller is the richest man in the history of the world, with a net worth of 10 times more than Bill Gates.
